

A. M. A. Founder Honored Sunday

A FRIEND SPEAKS

Col. J. C. McCue speaks at unveiling of plaques at Memorial Archway.

Plaques Are Unveiled At Memorial Archway

Founder's Day ceremonies at the Augusta Military Academy were staged in two parts during the past weekend. On May 8 (Sunday), dedication of the bronze plaques at the Memorial Archway was held at 4 p. m. with a speech by classmate and lifelong friend of the late Capt. Chas. S. Roller, III, Col. J. Cyrus McCue, III.

Mrs. Malcolm H. Livick, daughter of Capt. Roller and Mrs. S. S. Wales, and Mrs. Samuel S. Wales unveiled the bronze tablets which are inscribed:

"Augusta Military Academy"
Fort Defiance, Virginia

"Augusta Military Academy Chartered 1865 by Capt. Charles S. Roller, a Confederate Veteran of Co. E 1st Virginia Stuart's Cavalry. School founded 1742 as Augusta Academy. The School Arch presented by Arthur Ambrose, AMA '28, in Memory of his classmate, Charles S. Roller, III."

The AMA band under the direction of Capt. W. W. Goforth and Cadets Luke Snyder and Russ Calvert played "Dixie" in honor of Professor Roller and "America" in honor of Capt. C. S. Roller, III. The ceremonies on Sunday were in charge of Major C. E. Savedge.

On Monday morning at 9:30, the AMA corps honored the memory of the founder with ceremonies at the Old Stone Church cemetery. The corps marched up Route 11 to the cemetery. Col. J. C. McCue delivered the ad-

Col. J. C. McCue Speaks At Unveiling

Ladies and gentleman: we are gathered here today to dedicate this Memorial Entrance Way, and to unveil the two plaques which you see hanging on the staffs to my right and left.

This Entrance Way was presented to A. M. A. by Arthur Ambrose, Class of 1928, in memory of his friend, classmate, and roommate, Capt. Charles S. Roller, III, the son of General and Mrs. Charles S. Roller, Jr., and the grandson of Professor Charles S. Roller, the founder of the Augusta Military Academy.

Mr. Ambrose lives in Seattle, Wash., and was unable to be present at this ceremony, but his thoughts and his best wishes are with us today at this solemn occasion, and he has expressed a desire for some pictures of the ceremony.

General and Mrs. Roller, I am grateful to you for the opportunity to participate in this ceremony, for, as you know, I was a lifelong friend of your son, and I am happy to do anything in my small way that will help to perpetuate his memory.

The two plaques that will be unveiled in a moment are identical. They honor the memory of Professor Roller, the founder of the school, and his grandson. It is fitting and proper that we use this occasion, the birth date of Professor Roller, to dedicate this Entrance Way and the two plaques. It was 121 years ago, on May 8, 1939, that Professor Roller was born.

The two plaques will be unveiled by the two ladies most dear to Capt. Roller, other than his mother who is also with us. His former wife, Mrs. Samuel S. Wales, will unveil the plaque to my right, and his daughter, Mrs. Malcolm H. Livick, will unveil the plaque to my left.

It is with a feeling of deep humility, and of great personal sadness, that I participate in this moving dedication. Let us all hope that the spirit of these two men will always be with our great school, and that it shall go on to even more honor and greatness than it enjoys today.

History of Pin-up Queen Dance Is Recalled

During the darkest and bleakest days of World War II, Major Hoover and the BAYONET staff hit upon the inspiration to brighten the year with a dance which would be different from all of the others and one which would follow the trend of the day — and that trend was the selection of a Pin-Up Queen. Every unit, every outfit, and every plane during the war had its own Pin-Up Queen, and it seemed only natural to Major Hoover and the editors of the BAYONET for AMA to have a Queen each year. Heartily endorsed by Gen. Roller, the first Pin-Up Queen dance was a far cry from the dances of the present. Each girl who attended the initial Pin-Up Queen dance paraded before the judges, who then selected finalists, and at last, a Queen for a year.

Evolving slowly from this conception was the idea to give the Queen more publicity and to make it less embarrassing for all of the contestants. Five years later, the boys began to submit pictures of their dates and finalists were selected from every conceivable type of photograph. When the finalists arrived for the dance, there was still the contestant type of Pin-Up Queen dance . . . the frightened young ladies paraded before the corps and before the judges, and at last, came the announcement of the Queen for Augusta.

At last, the idea decided upon for selection of a Queen was that each boy in the corps could submit two pictures of his girl (one formal and one informal pose) together with a list of her activities in her school and in the community, and along with the selection of a queen the necessity for a court of princesses appeared.

During the war years, this one dance of the year was selected as the one to have the finest decorations, the best orchestra, and the most ceremony of any of the dances sponsored by the Cotillion Club. And as the years passed, ceremony became more and more important. Officers of the Battalion, the Cotillion Club, and other organizations began to form an arch for the entrance of the Queen. A crown bearer, and a master of ceremonies evolved, and the gentleman who would crown the Queen remained, as proper, the beloved principal, Gen. Roller.

One of the traditions which has been built up through the years in the use of a "throne" for the Queen. Actually, it was the idea of the late Mrs. Warren S. (Maggie Bell Roller) Robinson. On one of

The Editor's Corner

Lest We Forget

In our busy world of this mid twentieth century, we are all to prone to have no place in our hearts for sentiment. It is indeed fortunate that we at Augusta take time off from our daily rushing routine to get back to basic values, and to allow at least a spark of sentiment to be revived in our souls. There are no stronger ties than family ties, and nowhere are there stronger family ties than in the several generations of Rollers. The Founders of Augusta Military Academy are remembered each year in appropriate ceremonies, and rightly so.

Whatever greatness as an institution of learning Augusta has earned is well deserved. The guiding hands which have been passed from Father to sons, have constantly through the years pointed and directed young men toward the better life of higher learning and the path of moral and social acceptance. Many of Augusta's Graduates have seen the guiding hand and have followed its directing to outstanding success in various fields of endeavor.

Yes, it is right and fitting that we, the living, should pause each year on the day of the birth of our Founder, and to recall the traditions which make us what we are today. Yes, it is fitting to make a place in our hearts for sentiment. Yes, it is fitting that we bow our heads in silent prayer, and pay tribute to those who paved the way.

The traditions that are Augusta's shall be carried on for more generations to come.

Miss Crockett

Crowned Queen

Augusta XVII

In a royal setting of American Beauty rose and white, Miss Susan Elliott Crockett became Queen Augusta XVII on Saturday night in Augusta Military Academy's Memorial Gymnasium.

Miss Crockett's court was announced by Cadet Captain George Holt, of Burlington, secretary of the AMA Cotillion Club.

Forming a saber arch for the queen and her court were the following officers of the academy and their dates:

Entering first was the sixth princess, Miss Patsy Rogers, of Suffolk, with Cadet Private Joe Harrell. Miss Claire Lockhart Follin of Salem Academy and Winston - Salem appeared next with her escort, Cadet Lt. Bob Lowe, Fourth Princess, Miss Carole Mumpower, of Madison College and Winchester, entered with Cadet Sgt. Randy MacReynolds, followed by Miss Dixie Cone of Summerville, S. C., AMA's Third Princess, with her escort, Cadet Ronnie Ayers. Miss Nell Elizabeth Williams of the Mary Washington College came through the arch with her date, Cadet Tom Brothers, of Suffolk. Miss Williams was the second princess in the Pin - Up Queen Court. Miss Elaine Elder of Stuart Hall and Staunton, First Princess for 1960-61, was escorted by Cadet Capt. Adjutant James P. Towe, of Charlottesville. Prior to the queen's entrance, the crown bearer dressed in cadet formals, appeared with the queen's crown, a rhinestone tiara, on a royal red pillow. Crown bearer for the occasion was Cadet Sgt. Danny Ruffner of Charleston, W. Va.

As the queen, Miss Crockett, was announced, the saber arch snapped to attention to click sabers as the queen passed under the arch. Miss Crockett wore a white dress and carried an arm bouquet of red carnations with a centerpiece of white orchids.

Miss Crockett proceeded to the stage where she was joined by her escort, Cadet Capt. Robert Siman, of Miami. Seated on a silver throne, Miss Crockett was crowned queen for 1960-61 by the principal of the Academy, General Chas. S. Roller, Jr. "Seldom have I seen such a lovely queen," stated Gen Roller. "And I welcome you with affection to the Augusta Military Academy. May your reign as Queen Augusta XVII be a happy one, and may you return frequently to Fort Defiance to claim the corps as your subjects!" The McCoy Brothers Orchestra, a favorite at AMA, then played a special number for the queen and her court, and for Gen. and Mrs. Roller.

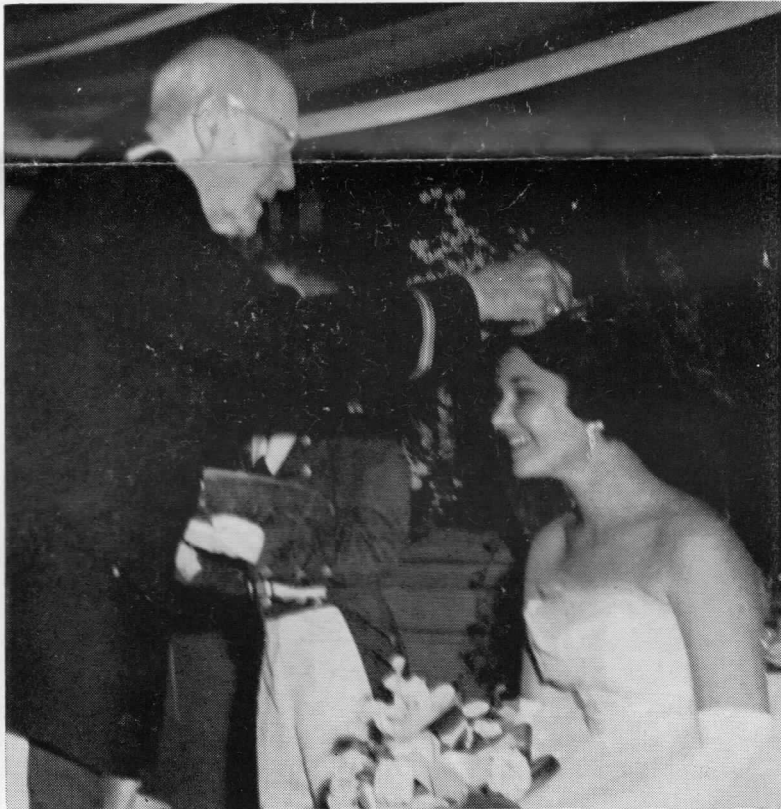

The gymnasium was decorated in American Beauty red and white. The throne for the queen and the princesses' chairs were silver and were at the center front of the gymnasium. A long archway provided the setting for the queen and her court at the front of the gymnasium. The

LaCrosse Team Loses Hard Match

Park School of Baltimore, Md. edged Augusta Military Academy in a closely fought lacrosse game on the loser's field, Saturday, May 7. The final score was 6-5 in favor of Park School.

Park School had previously defeated the Washington and Lee University Jayvee Lacrosse team the day before 9-4.

Playing a close defense AMA fought stubbornly for the first quarter before Fruckman of Park School dodged by his defense man to tally the first score of the game.

Scarcely a minute elapsed following the first score before Hooker of AMA evened the score by a neat shot to the upper left of the Park School goalie. Near the end of the first half Weitsfield of Park scored the second goal for the victors.

Augusta had several opportunities to tally but overshot the goal or fumbled the ball on many occasions. The half ended 2-1 in favor of Park.

AMA came back early in the second half to even the score when Siman shot one by the Park goalie.

Park came back with the help of two AMA being in the penalty box and went ahead to lead 3-2 when Malonne of Park tallied.

AMA outfought the visitor throughout the later part of the game and Hooker scored twice again and Crawford once while the visitors Arthur South tallied twice.

The stick work of the visitors played the difference between a win and a loss for AMA. Park school had a veteran team while Augusta had to start from almost a entire new team.

Augusta has two remaining games to be played — one with Virginia Frosh and the second with Charlotte Hall Military Academy.

Baseballers Win Against M.M.A.

FT. DEFIANCE — Augusta Military Academy picked up its second win of the week here Wednesday in downing Massanutten Military Academy 6-2.

The Rollermen turned four walks and a safety into a big five run first inning and had but little trouble in coasting to the win over Massanutten. They added the insurance tally in the fourth frame.

AMA's stickmen bashed out seven safeties in the contest, while the AMA hurlers held Massanutten to five hits.

Fencers Take Double From Hampden-Sydney

The AMA Fencing Team closed its elongated season with a double win over Hampden-Sydney College.

The first meet was won by the score of 14-4 and the second by the score of 10-4.

In the first meet Dave Trimble, Ed Amendola, Bill Mariner each won two bouts while Mac Coiner, Garrett Tackett, Bill Bradbury, Pritchard, Mack McIver, Joe O'Connor each won one apiece.

In the second meet Trimble, Amendola, Mariner, Coiner, O'Connor, McIver, Tackett, Pritchard, Bradbury, all won their matches.

Next season Hampden - Sydney College plans to have a three weapon team and will meet AMA on a home and home basis.

Due to transportation difficulties, VMI was unable to come to AMA this year.

Frostburg Teachers College will be on the AMA fencing schedule next season either with an all foil team or the regulation three weapon team.

Founders

Augusta's memorial arch was given to the Augusta Military Academy by Arthur Ambrose, of Seattle. Mr. Ambrose, who is now the director of one of the largest wholesale and retail furniture outlets in the northwest, attended Augusta from 1924-28 and was a roommate of the late Chas. S. Roller, III. Following graduation from AMA, Mr. Ambrose attended the Wharton School of Finance of the University of Pennsylvania.

General and Mrs. Chas. S. Roller, Jr. presented the bronze tablets to the academy in honor of the Roller family on Founder's Day.

Following the Sunday ceremonies which the Chas. S. Roller, III Rifles attended in a body under the direction of Cadet Capt. James P. Towe, the pin-up queen, Miss Susanne Crockett of Wytheville, and the members of her court were honored by a parade on the Academy grounds.

Recall Promised For June 4th

Target date — June 4th! Eagerly awaited, indeed, is the appearance of the AMA RECALL, and there are only fifty (50) more copies available. New this year is the fact that every boy who subscribed before the 15th of November will have his name stamped on the yearbook cover. And there were over 335 boys who have this free gift.

Herb Widener, editor of the '60 RECALL, promises that there are larger pictures than ever. "I believe the boys will really go for the athletic and military sections. We tried to cover every phase of school life, and if a boy doesn't have his picture in the RECALL, it's because he sat in barracks and did nothing! We had a photographer at every event, and we hope we will please everyone."

The price of the yearbook is still $10, and if there are any boys who haven't subscribed yet, there's just enough time not to be disappointed, but, warns, George Holt, business manager, "There are not enough yearbooks to go around; so let us know now about your subscription!"

Winner of Medalist award in Columbia Press, A+ at National Schools, and First Place at National Scholastic, the 1960 RECALL promises to live up to the records made in 1959! And again, the RECALL sets a record in size of prep school yearbooks. Last year, there were 230 pages full of pictures and information—in '60 there are 244 pages! Act now, and don't be disappointed later!

her tours of duty with the late Col. Robinson, Mrs. Robinson had purchased a large throne — like chair which when covered with silver paper made the perfect throne for the Queen. And the tradition of the smallest junior to act as crown-bearer came about quite naturally.

Two of the most beautiful Queens were Miss Mary Louise Oliver (Queen Augusta XIII) from Stuart Hall and Gadsden, Alabama, and Miss Josette Eubanks (Queen Augusta XV) of Stuart Hall and College Park, Pennsylvania. Miss Oliver had only two princesses in her court, but as the corps became larger, the increased number of contestants allowed a larger and larger number of princesses to be selected. In '58, there were four princesses, and for '60, six princesses and their escorts.
